
The employment margin is carried by log g^E (job access / feasibility) together with market access. Predicted shares are self-normalised importance-sampling estimates over 100 sampled latent jobs plus the deterministically inserted observed row.